HOW OLD IS A WOMAN AT FORTY?

By HECK

Is a woman as old as she looks? Among my poor possessions, I treasure a faded photograph of my mother, made during her early twenties when she was a blushing bride. Were she to come to life and step out of that picture today, any gallant young man would hasten to offer his seat to the "dear old lady" or to assist her across the traffic-ridden street. But block out from that old-fashioned picture the fussy, rouchinged neck piece, the quaint unyielding bodice, and the tightly drawn, ungraceful coiffure, and you will see unmistakably the same coquettish eyes, the glowing cheeks and the kindly, sparkling smile that greets one today from the billboard girl "whose skin you love to touch." Appearances often deceive.

The girl of a generation past seemed bent on making herself look as sedate and old as possible. The girl of today, of whatever age, contrives by ways that are dark and ingenious to look young. Bravo! for the effort! Though her art does not always achieve its purpose, it is, in the main, so successful that an age-guessing contest for women based on appearances alone is indeed a hazardous gamble.

Is a woman as old as she feels? Sunday-supplement psychology has taught her the tricks of self-hypnosis. She has schooled herself never to feel older than a cavouring colt or a playful kitten. No modern woman under sixty will permit herself to feel old. Bravo, again! This questionable endeavor too, has its redeeming features.

But why not be brutally frank, says the matter-of-fact man, and measure a woman's age, or a man's, for that matter, by the almanac? Because, my practical friend, to the woman of forty, the years that have flown mean nothing. The past is gone forever. She is living in the blazing present and anticipating a yet-brighter future. Perpetual youth is her ideal. Besides, the remorseless stride of time does not determine the age of living tissues. In the children's ward you may see poor little creatures of ten or twelve months, wisened and careworn as an octogenarian. Their tissues actually are, to all intents and purposes, old; burnt out.

Premature age in men of forty is sometimes found deeply etched, not only in the shallow wrinkled face, but also in the vital tissues concealed from the view of all except the discerning pathologist. Such men are not only apparently, but actually aged at forty. On the other hand, there are men and women of eighty whose arteries are still pliable, eyes bright and keen, muscular tissues firm and spirits charmingly nimble and youthful. Thomas A. Edison is such a youth. The calendar is no more reliable in measuring age than is the mirror or the trick of self-deception.

But why should a woman of forty be concerned about her age at all? Because age forty, measured by the family Bible, ushers in that golden period of life called middle age. Childhood is not for most people the ecstatic period of delight it is generally cracked up to be. Distance lends enchantment to the view. Boys and girls seem joyous and care-free enough, but who shall say that their childish griefs, their apparently insignificant worries do not loom up in their own sensitive minds to such magnified proportions as would stagger the mature adult! Childhood is a period of freshness and tingling anticipation, but is more objective than subjective. Youth and young adulthood have their delights, but also their bitter disappointments, their conflicts and their flat frustrations.

At age forty most men and women have become stabilized—but not static. The flush of youth has been melted into a surer judgment. Rosy dreams have been rudely smashed, but with the awakening have come beautiful, substantial realities and serene satisfactions. The fire of enthusiasm has cooled somewhat, but now the coals of ripe experience glow brightly. The babies that once absorbed so much of woman's emotional and physical life are no longer the ceaseless care they were. They remain just as dear, but now they are beginning to repay something of the love and affection invested in them. Soon happy grandchildren will troop along to repeat the cycle, but with less poignancy for the grandmother.

The mortgage on the homestead is no longer the subject of her worst nightmares; instead, a tidy sum nestles snugly in the savings account. Now, in these golden forties, fifties and sixties, the young woman has opportunity to relish the creature comforts of life and to enjoy the creations of art and music, to indulge some of her own long-suppressed ambitions and to unpinion the wings of fancies she may long have kept imprisoned. Whatever may be the charms of childhood, youth or old age, the forties represent the meridian of life and this period may with reasonable care be extended well into the seventies.

Just because the golden forties, fifties and sixties, present such an ideal picture, is all the more reason why the actual situation, with regard to health, is so tragic. Middle life has, with considerable justice, been called the dangerous age. During the forties the life expectancy curve changes its course from a concave to a convex tendency, and certain diseases that handicap the body make their unwelcome appearance more frequently than at other ages. Cancer is one of the enemies of middle life. But while cancer has not yet yielded its secret, we do know that most cases are curable if discovered early.

Tuberculosis strikes hardest during young adulthood, but even at forty or fifty we cannot afford to let down the defenses against this enemy. Diseases of the heart, arteries and kidneys are the other great despoilers of the golden age. These are most disorders of wear and tear; of tissue decay, and they announce themselves usually only after irreparable damage has been done. Fortunately the doctor, with his instruments of precision and his experience, can often detect the onset of these diseases of middle age when they are yet afar off like a little cloud the size of a man's hand; and because of this knowledge he may often prevent that cloud from bursting with a thunderous crash over the head of the unsuspecting victim.

Generally speaking, the conditions that handicap or destroy life in middle age are curable, or at least remediable in proportion as they are discovered early. Neglect is the sand that wears down and prematurely ages most machines in middle age. The woman who expects to be forty for a long time will give her body sensible, intelligent care.

If a woman of forty would know her actual, her physiological age let her ask: "How much vim and vitality is there left of the store with which I was endowed during the forty bygone calendar years; what is my body still capable of enduring and of accomplishing; how much reserve energy is still locked up in me, waiting to be released; how many years of usefulness and enjoyment are still before me; in short, what is the present measure of my efficiency and endurance?" She will be helped to arrive at a true answer by calling to her aid the experience and knowledge of a physician whose business it is to study constantly this fine human machine. The latest fashion—it is not a fad—is to have a physical examination periodically; some say once a year.

Men have been advised to have this little rite performed on their birthday, thus capitalizing an otherwise useless anniversary. Since women have emancipated themselves from this birthday milestone, (some call it a millstone) any other day will do quite as well. The purpose of this stock-taking idea is not to find out how sick one is, but what one's capital in terms of health really amounts to. A careful examination of every organ and part will do more to determine the true age of a person than anything else. It will help to conserve those physical assets which make for youthfulness and beauty, for as everyone knows, damage must be nipped in the bud if its later serious consequences are to be escaped.

How old is a woman at forty? Perish the ideal! Old is not the word. At forty she is gloriously young. She may have been more callow, more featherless once upon a time, but if her cheeks are painted from the inside out, she will never be more youthful and charming than at middle age. And the bloom of youth need not fade for many, many years.

NOTE:—Through the general education of the public in the ways of health, the National Tuberculosis Association and its 1500 affiliated associations for over twenty years have been seeking to prolong life. During this time the death rate from tuberculosis has been reduced more than half. Their campaign is supported by the annual Christmas seal sales held in December.

TORONTO TIDINGS.

Mrs. N. Moore and Mrs. M. Wilson left on November 10th, for a visit to friends in Simcoe, the scenes of the latter's old home.

Ernest Hackbush was up to Hamilton over Sunday, November 6th, but had to return in time to work on Thanksgiving Monday.

Miss Alma Brown enjoyed the Thanksgiving holidays at her parental home in Markdale.

On Thanksgiving Day a goodly bunch of our friends got together and took a long stroll over to Leaside, via the new high level viaduct, and had a fine time.

Mr. and Mrs. Silas Baskerville went out to the former's old home near Aurora for their Thanksgiving pleasure.

Mrs. Harry Mason, who is staying with the Dean family at Nobleton, was down on a flying visit on November first.

The Misses Florence Harris and Elsie Higgins spent the Thanksgiving recess with the latter's parents in London, where they had a whale of a time.

We were pleased to meet Mr. and Mrs. Eddie Fishbein, of London, who, with their children, motored down and spent Thanksgiving with Mr. and Mrs. Jack Stein.

Mrs. Harry Mason now rejoices over the birth lately of her first grand nephew, a son to Mr. and Mrs. Cleminger Bowen of the Robert Simpson Co.

Mr. W. R. Watt continued his interesting series of Biblical talks at our Epworth League on November 9th, and dwelt on the difference of "Dead in Sin" and "Dead unto Sin."

Mrs. A. C. Shepherd left on November 4th, for a lengthy visit to relatives and friends in Chicago, Ill., Green Bay and Union Grove, Wis. She stopped over for a day with friends in Detroit on her way up.

Miss Evelyn Durant was a welcome visitor here from Guelph over the Thanksgiving recess.

The "Frats" staged one of their regular "Riding the Goat" stunts at their headquarters on November 5th, and report a good time. Outside "Frats" who came for this occasion remained over for the holiday.

Mr. Charles Dorchner, of Iroquois Falls, was a Thanksgiving holiday visitor among his many schoolmates here.

Mr. Asa Forrester was the speaker at our service on November 6th, and gave the reason why all should be so thankful to Him for such blessings as we daily enjoy. Mrs. Walter Bell gave the usual hymn.

Messrs. Carl Harris and Norman Gleadow spent the Thanksgiving holidays with Mr. and Mrs. Harry E. Grooms. The former returned to Hamilton Sunday night, while the latter remained a day longer.

During Thanksgiving, Miss Theresa McLaren and her father came up from Renfrew for a visit here. Miss McLaren, who is totally deaf and never went to school, though nearly twenty years old, was left here with ample means to learn as much as she can by associating with the deaf here. Her mother, who died seven years ago, refused to let her go to school, hence Theresa's present plight. But she is a very nice and sociable girl and we are going to do all we can for her. She boards at our Parish House.

Miss Evelyn Hazlett left on November 4th, on a visit to her sister, Mrs. Gerald Hubbard, and others in Ottawa, returning on November 8th.

Mr. John Dean, of Nobleton, was in the city, on November 1st, disposing of his apples and potatoes to friends here. Jack looks very well.

Mr. and Mrs. A. W. Mason invited Mr. and Mrs. Sidney Walker and Messrs. Charles Elliott and John Flynn to a chicken supper, on November 6th, and spent Thanksgiving recess in honor of the forty-third anniversary of their wedding. Other surviving deaf who were at their wedding reception and supper at the corner of Spadina Avenue and D'Arcy Street, four decades ago, were Mr. and Mrs. John L. Smith, Mrs. R. R. Riddell, Miss Laura Elliott and Mr. Norman V. Lewis, of Los Angeles, Cal.

Our Board of Trustees met in regular monthly session on November 8th, and much matter pertaining to our church was discussed, but most of the problems were left over for the next meeting, when we hope to thrash them out.

We were delighted to meet the well known Schneider brothers, Louis, Albert, Milton and L. W., also Lemay Jette, who arrived here from Pembroke early Sunday morning, November 6th, and spent Thanksgiving recess with us. They were a jolly bunch of old "pals."

Miss Mabel Etherington, of Hamilton, was a guest of her sister and old friends here over Thanksgiving.

Miss Helen A. Middleton, of Niagara Falls, came up on November 4th, and next day in company with Mr. and Mrs. H. W. Roberts and their cousin, Miss Janet MacDonald, went out and spent the Thanksgiving vacation with Mrs. Roberts' relatives in and around Purpleville.

Miss Ada James, of Belleville, passed through here on her way to and from St. Thomas, where she sojourned over Thanksgiving.

Mr. W. A. O'Rourke, of Peterboro, was in the city for a week lately on pleasure and business bent.

The members of the Canadian Girls in Training Society held a very social evening, on November 5th, at Georgina House, and had a grand time.

President H. W. Roberts of the Bridgen Club regrets very much to say that he has received word from Mr. John C. T. Berry, of Royal Oak, Mich., stating that he finds it impossible to come down this fall and address our club, owing to pressure of business, but we hope he may yet come his winter and should he come, he and Mrs. Berry would receive a very rousing welcome.

We are glad to say that Mr. Fred Parsons, who has been very ill lately, is around again and your reporter, on calling to see him the other evening, was surprised to learn he was able to go to work again.

Mr. and Mrs. A. W. Mason, two of our best known and most esteemed friends, observed their forty-third wedding anniversary on November 3d, and it may interest many to recall briefly their wedding day so long ago. Miss George Morse and Mr. Charles Boyle, prominent people of Leamington, were bridesmaid and best man, respectively, and the few guests who were invited were treated to a fat roasted rooster, by the bride's mother, a widow, who died a year or so ago, at the Mason house here, aged ninety-three years. The young couple, after a brief stay in Windsor, left for their home in Toronto, only to find the entire deaf population of that city had arranged a banquet in honor of the happy couple. At that time hardly more than two score were living in that city, compared to nearly three hundred now. Prominent among those present were: Messrs. P. D. Nasmith, J. Beale and Frederick Bridgen, Sr., all of whom have since crossed the Bar. As was his custom, Mr. Bridgen presented them with a large family Bible, while a beautiful set of tea china came from in unknown party. We trust the Masons will be spared to enjoy many more such happy anniversaries.

Mr. Fanny Boughton gave a surprise party in honor of Mrs. R. R. Riddle's seventy-fifth birthday on November 5th, at the Riddell home, and it turned out to be a most enjoyable affair, with guests representing June and December joining in the merry making and Mrs. Riddell received many gifts.

Mr. Jones has resigned as caretaker of our church and Mr. Johnston has been appointed to the job, and is giving general satisfaction all around.

Miss Mary McDougall, of Windsor, has been the guest of her sister, Mrs. Colin McLean, for a while lately.

The Bridgen Club held a very pleasant evening on November 4th, and the way things turned out was most gratifying to all present. Mr. Oscar Noakes spoke on the rise of an unknown deaf man to fame. Charles A. Elliott gave a very interesting lecture on "Telephony."

H. W. Roberts gave current events on which much discussion followed. It took the form of a bridal shower for one of our popular members, Mr. Colin McLean and his estimable young bride. Mrs. H. Whealy as the washer woman, and Miss Beulah Wilson, as the Belle of Holland, both dressed up accordingly, brought in a huge basket of "Washing Clothes," which Mrs. Whealy said was a "job lot," while Miss Wilson drove away the gloom with merry jokes and dancing as they handed gift after to the bride for inspection. It was a scene well worth seeing.

LONDON LEAVES

Mrs. William McGovern, of Chatham, formerly Miss Hazel Humphrey, of this city, spent the Thanksgiving week-end with her people here and on her return was accompanied by her mother, who spent a short time in the "Maple City."

Miss Ada James, of Belleville, was a guest of relatives in St. Thomas over Thanksgiving and on her way back to our Alma Mater gave Miss Sophie Fishbein a parting adieu.

Mr. and Mrs. Jontie Henderson, of Sarnia, were in this city, while en route to St. Thomas and Talbotville, where they spent the Thanksgiving recess with relatives, amid the scenes of their old home.

Mr. and Mrs. Edward Fishbein and children motored to Toronto for the Thanksgiving week-end, and while in the "Queen City" they were the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Jack Stein of Grange Avenue. Mr. Fishbein attended the "Frats" social. On their way home they made a stop at Brantford to give Howard Lloyd and family the glad hand. After that they speeded for home through slush and snow.

GENERAL GLEANINGS

By placing his fingers on a coney-top loudspeaker, F. J. Shaunesey, of Rochester, N. Y., who is deaf and dumb, is able to "listen" to music and pick out the various instruments in an orchestra.

Descronto, Nov. 9.—David Maracle, an Indian, was this afternoon committed for trial at the Spring Assizes on a charge of attempting to murder Perry Jaynes, an Indian mute, on the Mohawk Reservation on Sunday night, October 16. Magistrate Bedford was on the bench, and the accused was represented by A. H. Grange of Napanee, while B. C. Donnan of Belleville, County Crown Attorney, prosecuted.

Perry Jaynes, the wounded mute, took the stand. Professor F. G. F. Stewart, of the Ontario School for the Deaf at Belleville, acted as interpreter, and told of going with Edward Maracle to David's on October 16th, where he bought a bottle of whiskey for $3. All three took several drinks. Edward fell asleep on a chair. While he was drawing, a dispute arose between David and Perry, as a result of which Perry was ordered out by David Maracle.

He went out, and Maracle followed and placed his arm around Perry's neck. Then he struck Jaynes in the face. Jaynes turned and knocked David down, and Maracle, getting to his feet, went into the house. He came out with a gun, believed to have been behind the kitchen door, and pointing it at Jaynes, shot him in the face. Jaynes ran down the hill and went home. Later he was attended by Dr. Boyce.

HERBERT W. ROBERTS.

SEATTLE

Prof. and Mrs. L. A. Divine and son, Walter, of Vancouver, motored to our house in their Buick coach, a master six, October 27th. They visited their other son, Bud, a student at the University of Washington and living at the Lambda Chi Alpha Fraternity, of which he is a pledge. They also visited the Thursday social at the Lutheran hall.

The Divines went to Anacortes and Bellingham and attended our N. F. S. D. masquerade party, Saturday night, the 29th. Their old pupils, Miss Freese, John Hood, Frank Kelly, the Martins and several others were glad to see them.

Sunday morning, after a visit with Buddy Divine, Mr. and Mrs. Divine and Walter returned home.

Mr. Divine has been teaching the deaf for thirty-two years and is a pleasant man to meet, and Mrs. Divine is one of the most broad-minded people.

The masquerade party, under the auspices of the N. F. S. D., was attended by about eighty people at Woog's Hall on Market Street. The committee, consisting of chairman W. E. Brown, L. O. Christenson, A. K. Waugh, Frank Morrissey and Frank Kelly gave out seventeen prizes, some of which went to Mrs. McConnell for the best looking costume, Miss Bertha Stowe for the funniest and Clarie Reeves, a negro whom, Mrs. Divine thought, with Mrs. W. E. Brown, the negress, were the best looking pair. They reminded her of her Southern home.

Mrs. Jack Bertram won the first prize at "$500" for the ladies and Frank Kelly for the men.

Mrs. Violet Gillis and James Lowell, of Tacoma, were each awarded a prize as the most perfect dancers.

Mr. Lowell also won the first prize playing whist.

The committee made $32, of which about half paid the expenses.

Mrs. McConnell's costume was worthy of the first prize, as it took considerable work, though at the same time Mrs. James Lowell's was a beautiful piece of Turkish apparel.

Mr. McConnell, at the close of the party, signed a song of his own composition, "I salute my American flag," which was very good.

"Sourdough" Willie West, after six straight years up in Yukon territory, came out to the States for the winter. It took him two weeks to make the trip from Dawson to Seattle. During the summer he worked with his father in machine shops, while in winter, with Mrs. West, they moved to their claim on Miller Creek, forty miles from Dawson, where they would take out placer dirt, and pan out a fair amount of gold for the season. Mr. West says a miner will occasionally strike it rich enough to make a comfortable fortune, but no bonanzas are being discovered as in the early gold rush days.

When he appeared at our masquerade party, his old friends flocked around him, warmly greeting him. Mrs. McConnell, one of Seattle's oldest deaf pioneers, hugged him. We are all very glad to have him with us.

Mrs. Victoria Smith successfully managed a surprise birthday party for Mrs. Claire Reeves, October 15th, at the Reeve's apartment. Nearly every one of the twenty friends present brought her a gift. 500 and other games were played and refreshments with ice cream and a decorated birthday cake were served. Mrs. Reeves is a regular church woman, always willing to work on committees and sign hymns, at which she is excellent. She has been, for three years, the treasurer of the Lutheran Ladies' Aid.

Three weeks ago Mrs. Alfred Waugh, after alighting from a bus, was hit by an auto when she was half way across the highway of Woodland Park Avenue. After being identified by the people at a near store, an ambulance took her to the Norwegian Hospital, where she staid for a week. Her leg was broken. She is home, convalescing nicely. It will be several weeks before she is able to walk.

Mr. and Mrs. W. S. Root entertained Mrs. O'Neil at a dinner, Sunday, October 30th. Mr. and Mrs. George Bain, of Vancouver, British Columbia, and Will West were among the ten guests. The Bains left for home early in the afternoon in their auto. They took in the N. F. S. D. masquerade party the night before and came home with the Root family.

Claude Ziegler was struck by a heavy piece of lumber, while at work in a lumber mill, and fell sideways, against a table, breaking one of his ribs and bruising his left thumb. He has been unable to work the past three weeks.

The card party at Mr. and Mrs. Root's home, October 22d, was much enjoyed by sixteen friends. Mrs. Lawrence Belser and Mr. Reeves were the most lucky winners at bidding on 500. Fine refreshments were served before the party broke up.

Miss Marion Bertram, the president of the Franklin High School Girls' Club, attended the annual conference of the State High School leaders, under the auspices of the University of Washington, a few days ago. In the evening after dinner, at the Pi Sigma Gamma sorority house, she went to the ball at the University Hall, staying overnight with one of her teachers. We are proud of her, being the daughter of our friends, Mr. and Mrs. Jack Bertram.

In honor of Claude Ziegler's birthday the 23d of October, his wife invited about a dozen friends to her home, after the Lutheran Church service, for lunch. Mr. Ziegler received a good many useful presents. The birthday cake baked by Mrs. Ziegler was delicious and prettily decorated.

The Reeves had Mrs. Violet Gillis, of Kent, and Mr. Furlow, who just reached here from Kansas, during the Hallowe'en week-end.

Mr. and Mrs. Claude Wood left Seattle for San Francisco, driving down by auto.

Mrs. John Brinkman managed the Thursday card party, October 20th. The next week it was Sam Schneider's turn. He presented Mrs. Reeves and Mr. Koberstein a box of chocolate for the highest scores at progressive whist.

This week Mrs. Reeves had the social in her charge and it was successful with six tables in play.

A. W. Wright and Eddie Spieler won prizes of bath salts and a tie at whist. Mrs. Ziegler and Mr. Pickett won booby prizes of ivory soap. It was the evening of our monthly luncheon under the committee of Mrs. Root, Mrs. Gustin and Mrs. Fred Kuhn.

Aunt Pauline Gustin returned home from her visit of six weeks in Arlington, bringing with her Mrs. Chas. Brazelton and a car full of fresh vegetables and fruit enough to last her all winter.

Though Mrs. Brazelton took interest in the doings of the Lutheran Ladies' Aid and our card parties, she is perfectly satisfied with her country home. She and her husband are comfortably settled on their forty acre dairy ranch. They own six Jersey and Hensley cows. Their four children are all married and prosperous.

Mrs. Brazelton and her husband attended the pretty wedding of Dorothy, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Glenn Pierson, of Lowell, last August. The bride and her husband who works at a paper mill, had their house furnished and thirteen acres, to start.

Fred Kuhn secured work with the Puckett Co., and is stripping and nailing apple boxes. Misses Stowe and Freese, Bert Haire and John Hood, have been employed there for some time.

John Bertram had the most flattering moment of his life, where he was one of those chosen to usher at the stadium during the football game between University of Washington and Stanford. His dad, Jack Bertram, witnessed the game.

Miss Mabel Slegel is to be congratulated, because her mother won the first prize for the best grown dahlias, at a flower show in Tacoma.

Our friend, Miss Alice Wilberg, is employed at the Frank Meier department store in Portland, with sixteen other deaf girls. She has plenty of company.

Rev. Geo. W. Gaertner has been preaching in Yakima in place of Rev. C. Price, of Spokane, while he was in the hospital recovering from an operation. He had to drop Victoria from his schedule, but received a letter from the deaf urging him to continue his services there. Mr. and Mrs. George Rily are helping the church a great deal.

And they are slaves most base,
Whose love of right is for themselves,
And not for all the race."

THE deaf children of St. Louis, as well as their parents, are to be congratulated upon the appointment of Miss Pearl Herdman to be Principal of the Gallaudet School. She is well-qualified for the position by a thorough knowledge of the deaf and their needs, by educational accomplishments and experience. Her appointment is a distinct triumph for the Combined System of educating the deaf—a system which utilizes all methods, adapting them singly or together to promote the mental development of the child. Her appointment does not mean that the oral method will be discarded, but that every child will have a full and fair chance to learn to speak and read the lips of other speakers, unless through loss of time and effort expended, it be detrimental to the general education. Almost any child can be taught to do stunts in speech and lip-reading, to the amazement of the casual visitor, but its intellectual progress has a much more important bearing upon a successful future after school days are over.

THE meeting of the New York Branch of the National Association of the Deaf suggests the importance of a still more thorough organization to promote the public welfare of the "silent people." The recent election for this branch seems to guarantee that the rights of the deaf in this State will be conserved. The progress of the De l'Epee Statue Fund, under the wise guidance of Mr. S. Frankenheim, is steadily rising, and a strong pull, a long pull, and a pull all together, will carry it over the top.

After the business meeting, the crowd which filled the large room of the Deaf-Mutes' Union League, were entertained and edified by an address from Mr. Kelly Stevens, of New Jersey, upon the deaf of Europe. He occupied over an hour in telling the audience about the social and industrial activities of the deaf of France, of Italy, and of Spain, elucidating the methods of intercommunication and the peculiarities of their sign language—the natural signs, the letter signs, and the scope and clarity of their gestures—winding up with a vivid description of a bull fight in the arena at Madrid.

A WATTERED old automobile was parked one evening on the campus of Columbia University last week, because the owner could not make it go. Next morning it had the following inscription painted on it: "I do not choose to run."

It was announced at the New York Institution last week that Mr. Edward Clearwater had died on Tuesday evening, November 15th, at the age of 83 years. Apparently in good health a week previous, a sudden and severe cold ended fatally. He spent all of his life, from the morning of manhood to the sober days of old age, as carpenter at the trade school of Fanwood—54 years in all, 14 of which were as assistant to his father (John Clearwater), and 40 years as head instructor to the classes assigned to carpentry and cabinet making at the school. He was retired in November, 1924, as a beneficiary of the State Retirement System. When a young man he was remarkable for his physical strength. With his life-long friend, Mr. Joseph H. Banks, formerly engineer at the Institution power house, he was many times a victor in the two-oared shell races on the Hudson River. Always strong and healthy, his demise was entirely a surprise, and his passing is regretted by all who had the privilege of his association.

BALTIMORE

Recently Baltimore held a male beauty contest at Carlin's Park to pick "Mr. Baltimore." There were over 150 entrants. From reports I gather that only one deaf man was in the contest, Mr. Boniface Oviniski. My informant further adds that Mr. Oviniski was among the last fifteen eliminated.

Mr. Barney Golden, of Post, Texas, Gallaudet, '27, is now instructor in shop language, mechanical drawing and shoe repairing, in the Maryland School for the Deaf. We hope to make his acquaintance in Baltimore soon.

Last month Mr. Ignatius Bjorlee, Superintendent of the Maryland School, was presented with a diamond-studded Rotary emblem in the form of a President's button.

At the September meeting of Baltimore Division, No. 47, Bro. W. Duval, our delegate to the Denver Convention, delivered an interesting report on the convention. The lateness of the hour forced Bro. Duval to omit the social features, to our regret. Later, on invitation, Bro. Duval addressed a large gathering at the Silent Oriole Club and depicted the beauty of Colorado and other places visited.

1827-1927.—During October, the Baltimore & Ohio Railroad commemorated its one hundredth birthday with a magnificent and spectacular pageant and exhibition at Halethorpe, Md. The daily attendance was from fifty to eighty thousand. The pageant took over two hours to pass in review. It was a complete review of the history of transportation. Beginning with the American Indians and their pack horses, the crude river transports, and later the improved canal days. Then came the birth of the B. & O. In succession came the various ingenious devices introduced to make horsepower applicable to railroad cars. Some of them were the horse car, treadmill car, and sail car. These did not meet with the solution until the coming of the steam locomotive, beginning with the Tom Thumb of 1829. The pageant displayed all the later types up to 1927.

Mrs. Flood and daughter, of Washington, D. C., accompanied by Mr. and Mrs. Lowell and two children, motored to Halethorpe, Md., on October 25th, to visit the Fair of the Iron Horse. While in Baltimore, they paid a short visit to the Leitners.

Miss Clara Wheeler, of Washington, D. C., ex-Gallaudet '29, has been appointed to the teaching staff at the Overlea School. Miss Wheeler takes the place vacated by Miss Ethel Mason, who resigned to get married.

Mr. George Faupel, teacher at the Maryland School, in charge of Maryland's quota to the E. M. G. Memorial Fund, reports the total passed the $225 mark. We are still far behind in our quota of $657.

If you are looking for a good time, come to Baltimore on Saturday, November 26th, and attend the Second Annual Ball of the Silent Oriole Club. This club is composed of a fine bunch of intelligent young men, and you may rest assured of a warm welcome and a good time. The ball will be held at Schanze's Hall, North and Pennsylvania Avenues.

Mr. and Mrs. Conrad Och recently tendered a surprise birthday party in honor of Miss Rachel Schames.

Mrs. J. A. Trundle spent a few days in Baltimore last week. She had previously been the guest of the Faupels and Bensons in Frederick for a few days.

The deaf Mission of Grace and St. Peter's will hold a chicken supper and bazaar on December 2d.

While working for the city, Mr. Layden was recently bitten on the leg by a stray dog and has been under a doctor's care for over three weeks.

Baltimore Division No. 47, held a very successful Halloween Social at Morning Star Hall, October 29th. A large crowd was in attendance. Costume prizes were awarded to Mrs. Och and a hearing man.

Last week Mr. Roland Stultz gave a public showing of the Frat and Maryland picnic films, and two other good reels, at the Morning Star Hall. The picnic films were a treat and gave us of Baltimore a chance to see ourselves as other see us.

Mrs. Belle King is now living with her nephew in Kentucky.

Mrs. Beasley, of West Virginia, was the guest of the Mills two weeks during October.

Mrs. George Leitner recently spent a few days in Centerville, Md., as the guest of Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Trundle.

During the latter part of September, Mr. Henry Bernac returned from Winona, Minn., bringing along his two young sisters.

On September 10th, the Silent Oriole Club tendered a successful social at the club room. Movies of Lindbergh's great transatlantic flight, several amusing games and dancing helped make it very enjoyable affair.

Prizes for guessing the correct number of yards of thread on a spool went to Miss Emma Fleury and Mrs. August Wriede.

Prizes for guessing the correct measurement of a cigarette went to Messrs. W. Smithers and Uriah Shockley.

Affairs given by the S. O. C. have always proved popular and always well attended.

The WRIEDES

OHIO.

News items for this column can be sent to B. M. Edgar, 56 Latta Avenue, Columbus, Ohio.

It seems that every organization in Ohio is always eager to do something for the Ohio Home. Last week the Stitch and Chatter Club met at the Home for an all-day sewing. They visited the rooms and found what was most needed to make them more homelike. Those present were Mesdames Beckert, Cook, Lieb, Neutzling, Ohlemacher, Thomas, Work, Winemiller and Zorn. Such gatherings always help to enliven the residents.

Mrs. Eva Matthews Ottenbacher, and three children, of Indiana, have been the guests of relatives in Columbus, leaving Mr. Ottenbacher to keep house. Before leaving for home they were entertained by Mr. and Mrs. Ohlemacher. Mrs. Ottenbacher's parents will spend most of the winter in Indiana.

The Thanksgiving entertainment committee, composed of Mr. Zorn, Miss Frances Walker and Miss Ethelburga Zell, has been busy working out their plans to entertain the pupils at the school. Miss Zell has been sporting a cane lately—not for style—but because of an attack of lumbago.

The Columbus Branch of the N. A. D. has been helping a needy family the past week. The parents are deaf-mutes and have a family of seven children. The branch is making plans for December 10th—Gallaudet Day.

The Ohio E. M. G. fund has now reached $1,520.72, lacking just $1,200 to fill the quota. It seems to us that December 10th could be honored in no better way than making up the $1,200 through the state.

December 3d, the Toledo Division No. 16, N. F. S. D., will celebrate their twentieth anniversary with a banquet at $2 a plate. Reservations can be made by writing to Mr. John Curry, 3707 Homewood Avenue, Toledo. The banquet will be in the Chamber of Commerce Building.

Mr. and Mrs. George Goll honored Mr. and Mrs. Le Roy Mockler (Pauline Palmer) with a miscellaneous shower, at their country home near Stryker. The newly weds were given many nice presents to take to their home at Bryan, where Mr. Mockler is employed as a printer. A good crowd was present to extend best wishes to the couple.

Mr. and Mrs. O'Neal, of Dayton, are rejoicing over the fact that they are now owning a home of their own, as they recently purchased a house and immediately moved into it, saying "goodbye" to landlords.

Mrs. Ethel Deavers, of Dayton, returned from her visit in Florida, where she met many deaf from Ohio. Mr. and Mrs. Hall, of New Castle, Ind., have been in Dayton for a few months with relatives. Mr. Hall hoped to secure work there, but failed to get a permanent job and so returned to Indiana, where we hope he can have better luck.

The electric mixer purchased for the Home by the Columbus Ladies' Aid Society is giving Matron Chapman satisfaction so far. It is a great labor-saving device and was manufactured in Troy, Ohio, by the Hobart Company, which employs one deaf man, a Mr. Stanford Mapes.

Mr. Conrad Zorbaugh is still confined to his bed since his operation. He is now at the Home, where he has been a resident for some years. His son and daughter-in-law, Rev. and Mrs. Charles Zorbaugh, are frequently at the Home, helping to care for their aged father. Mr. Zorbaugh was for many years a teacher in the Iowa School.

Almost every week brings a class of students from nearby county schools to the Chronicle office, and all show much interest in the watching the deaf pupils operating linotype machines. These classes are always accompanied by their teachers.

Today, November 17th, find Columbus covered with a blanket of snow—our first touch of real winter.

Mr. James William, a lifelong friend of Harry Leibsohn and resident of Wilkesbarre, Pa., died last week, after a long illness of five years. He came to New York several times to get acquainted with many deaf-mutes at the Leibsohn's. He leaves a hearing wife, one daughter and two sons.

Robert C. Harth has been in the Jersey City Hospital since November 1st. He went under an operation and is doing fairly. He would be pleased if any of his friends would call on him. Evenings 7 to 8, afternoons 2 to 3. We all hope for a speedy recovery.

Gallaudet College

As I sit here, pounding away at my typewriter this beautiful Sunday morning, I can think of no opening more appropriate than "Dignity in Toil," a sermon the Rev. Arthur D. Bryant gave in Chapel Hall, Sunday evening, November 13th. Strangely enough, too, one of his points had to do with the propriety of work on Sunday, providing it did not interfere with one's spiritual recreation. The good Reverend also made it clear to a capacity crowd that labor was not to be lightly sniffed at, but to be revered as the choice part of every man's existence.

A certain alumnus, extolling the glories of past years here at Gallaudet, declared some time ago that the co-eds of his day had the edge upon ours as to feminine beauty. The correspondent is now in a position to take up the gage and to refute his claim, with the assertion that our co-eds are as fair as any other damsels that lived ever since Adam found one of his ribs missing. For at the Food Show, staged Friday night in the Auditorium by the city branch of the Y. W. C. A., two Kendall Green girls tied first place in a beauty contest for red-haired girls from all parts of the District of Columbia. Lillian "Red Top" Gourley, S. S., who claims that her hair isn't red but orange, and Lois Butler, a Kendall School post-graduate, defeated all comers for the laurels of red-haired pulchritude, but the judges were at a loss as to which one was the more beautiful, and keeping in mind the disastrous course Paris, the Trojan, took, decided to halve the crown and bestow the honors equally upon "Red Top" and Lois.

GALLAUDET SWAMPS AMERICAN U. 21 to 6

Displaying a marked improvement in every department of the game, the Gallaudet gridders had little trouble in disposing of the American University eleven by the decisive score of 20 to 6. Sad to say, the Buff and Blue players found themselves only after the three most important games had been played. Albright, Temple and C. C. N. Y., would not have had so easy a time with our men, had they played with the eleven that trotted out on Hotchkiss Field Saturday afternoon, November 19th.

The Kendall Greeners were prevented from getting a shut-out victory over American University by a costly fumble—or, rather, a brace of fumbles in the third period, which enabled the visitors to score. Otherwise, the superiority of the Kendalls, over the Methodists in every phase of the game was unquestioned. For the greater part of the time, the ball was deep in American U's territory. Gallaudet's overhead game was at its best that afternoon, quite a number of passes being completed, thus contributing largely to the success of the afternoon's game.

Early in the first period, Zieske intercepted a pass and ran 40 yards behind excellent interference, only to be downed within striking distance of the goal-line. Plunges by Dyer and Crawford and Miller finally enabled Dyer to crash through for the initial touchdown. Dyer booted the pigskin over the bar for the additional point.

After seesawing back and forth perfunctorily on the field, Birthright, American U's star halfback, punted feebly to mid-field. Dyer skimmed left end for 30 yards. Two line bucks forced the ball to the visitors' 20-yard line. By means of a cleverly executed fake, Zieske tore through for the second touchdown of the afternoon. Dyer's toe was put to the test, but his placement kick failed.

In the waning minutes of the first half, the Methodists suddenly became full of life and launched a powerful offense, which momentarily unbalanced our men. However, the Kendall Greeners were able to hold them time after time for downs. The frenzied line-attacks of American University were cut short by the whistle announcing half-time.

The Methodists continued to threaten us seriously in the third quarter, which was manifestly theirs. They slithered down the field to the very shadow of Gallaudet's goal-posts, where they were finally stopped. A fumble by Miller gave the visitors another chance to score, which opportunity they failed to utilize, however mightily Birthright strove to carry the ball over. The Kendall Greeners took the ball again, but Dyer fumbled. This time Birthright plowed through for the lone touchdown on their slate. His try for an extra point failed.

Suddenly shifting to a strictly overhead policy, the Gallaudetians experienced little difficulty in scoring in the last quarter. Miller heaved to Zieske for a net gain of 20 yards, which pass was immediately followed by another from Miller to Merklin which brought us 18 yards nearer to the goal line. Then Zieske ripped through for another touchdown, which was augmented by a successful placement kick by Miller.

Line-up and summary:

GALLAUDET (21)	AMERICAN U. (6)

Score by periods:

Gallaudet	7	7	0	7—21
American U.	0	0	6	—6

Touchdowns—Dyer, Zieske (2). Birthright. Points after touchdowns—Dyer, Miller. Substitutions: Gallaudet—Marshall for Crawford, Cain for Reins, Yoder for Monaghan, Hokanson for Miller; American U.—Platz for Fields, Frazer for Sullivan, Speer for Levins. Referee—Mr. O'Meara (Gonzaga). Umpire—Mr. Farley (Miami). Head linesman—Mr. Harmon (Bethany). Time of periods—12 minutes each.

The social calendar for next week bids fair to fatten somewhat next week's letter to the DEAF-MUTES' JOURNAL. Wednesday there will be a dramatic presentation, "Slats," by the Jollity Club. From a spurious peek at the programs then being printed in Mr. Frank Smith's shop in the basement, the correspondent is able to announce (though a bit prematurely) that other features are also slated for the night's program.

Thanksgiving Day along with its cases of indigestion, the Molly-Coddle Clash, the Class Rush, holiday activities are some of the attractions that have their place in next week's repertoire.

Thanksgiving week!

On Thursday evening, 24th, at 8 P.M., there will be a wedding in All Souls' Church for the Deaf. After the wedding, about 7:30 P.M., a Thanksgiving service will be held, and it will be followed by an entertainment in the Parish House under the direction of the Ladies' Pastoral Aid Society. A small admission price will be charged.

Among the visitors to the Home for the Aged and Infirm Deaf on its last Donation Day, October 1st, were Mrs. LeRoy Moore, of Harrisburg, and Miss Dora Heim, of Kane, Pa. They remained in the city only two days. Miss Heim accompanied Mrs. Moore to the Capital City for an extended visit before going home. On October 8th, Mrs. Thomas D. Delp, of this city, visited Mrs. Moore in Harrisburg for two days.

Quite a few of our deaf are working on short time or are idle at present. It is a condition that often happens at this time of the year.

Mrs. William H. Eakins, of Reading, Pa., is visiting her daughter, Mrs. Minnie Troup, in this city at present.

Mr. Jacob A. Goldstein, Secretary of the Beth Israel Association of the Deaf, gave the members a talk on "Trials and Tribulations of Committees," on Sunday afternoon, November 13th last. Rabbi Marvin Nathan, of the Temple Beth Israel, where our Hebrew deaf meet weekly, gave the talk before the Association on Sunday, November 20th.

The P. I. D. foot ball team continued its streak of victories by defeating a Wilmington, Del., team on Saturday afternoon.

Three deaf persons, Messrs. Mavor, Malvey and Duggan, are at present taking treatment at the Hamburg, Pa., Sanitarium. Now and then they receive visits from deaf friends and, it can be imagined, they enjoy such visits.

We are sorry to learn that Mr. George A. Wutcher has been confined to his home in Allentown, Pa., by paralysis of both legs for quite a while. Mr. Wutcher and his wife used to live in Philadelphia and was known here as an industrious and exemplary young man. The couple have no children. Friends visit him and try to make his condition as comfortable as possible.

Judging from his talks before the Cleric Literary Association on three occasions—the 13th and 20th of October and on November 10th—Mr. John A. Roach made the best of his trip West early last summer. He was the Philadelphia delegate to the Frat convention in Colorado and extended his visit to Utah, California and Mexico, also stopping for a while in Chicago.

Mr. and Mrs. Jonathan Haney recently moved from South to West Bethlehem and were hardly settled down before Mrs. Haney had the misfortune to fall from a step-ladder and sprain her foot. Her friends regret the mishap.

The Rev. H. J. Pulver has moved to 1212 North 15th Street, Harrisburg, Pa. A bazaar was held there on November 19th, for the benefit of the P. S. A. D. We hope it was successful.

Bishop Thomas, formerly of Wyoming, and now located here, where he formerly lived before going West, will visit All Souls' Church for the Deaf on next Sunday afternoon, November 27th. The members of the Church are urged to turn out in full force to meet the Bishop and they will no doubt do so.

All Souls' new heating apparatus is now being used and it is hoped that it will prove entirely satisfactory.

Lecture by Rev. Mr. Smaltz at All Souls' Hall next Saturday evening, November 26th. The lecture will be followed by a debate on a live topic between Messrs. Smaltz and Kepp. Admission, 25 cents.

Briefly, only three adjectives could adequately describe the Bal Masque which came off on Saturday evening, November 5th, as the jolliest, the funniest and the grandest evening. The attendance was usually up to the mark for an occasion of its size, with out-of-town visitors greatly augmenting it. It also was recorded as a success financially, for which much credit is due the Ball Committee consisting of Joseph Tosti, Chairman; Howard Ferguson, Robert Robinson, Eugene A. Kier, William Margolis, John Walsh and Albert Duby.

Enchanting music was rendered by the Schvehler's Orchestra and save for the customary intermission, the merry whirl of the evening never ceased until it was a proper hour to say "Good Morning." However fitful were the years of other glorious times, this year's function had some new features that were favorable impressed and it is needless to say that the affair as a whole was hugely enjoyed by all.

With Mr. Hugh J. Cusack acting as Floor Manager, Mr. John A. Roach had the difficult task in the selection of the judges on costumes, the following of whom were empaneled on the jury:—

Miss Emily Sterck, of Trenton, N. J.; Miss Mary Gunderson, of Minnesota; Mr. Dana Libbey of East Orange, N. J.; Mr. Gilbert Singerman of Altoona, Pa., and Mr. Walter Weisenstein of Brooklyn, N. Y. While they had experienced a very trying time due to the great variety of costumes, by their verdict the following list of winners are given herewith:—

Ladies—The best dresser to Freda Houska, of Camden, N. J.; for the most original to Mrs. Robert Robinson, of Philadelphia; for the most grotesque, to Miss Mary Shute, of Philadelphia; for the most comical, to Miss Blanche Glicker, of Reading, Pa.; for the best impersonation, to Mrs. M. Iron, of Scranton, Pa.

The gents came in the following order: For the best dresser, to Paul Ferni, of Philadelphia; for the most original, to William E. V. Brogan, of Ardmore, Pa.; for the most grotesque, to Myer Levin, of Philadelphia; for the most comical, to Nick Dures, of Philadelphia; and for the best impersonation, to Robert Platt of Philadelphia.

Sixty dollars in cash prizes were distributed.

WITNESS STORY OF GIRL'S MURDER SPURNED HOURS.

York, Pa., Nov. 12.—For nine hours last night Arthur Long, a deaf-mute, tried to convince the police and acquaintances that he had seen a girl shot and clubbed to death by a man wearing a hunting costume and with a gunner's license pinned on his back. Meanwhile the body of 16-year-old Getrude Rudy had been found along the tracks of the Maryland & Pennsylvania Railroad just east of the city.

Shortly after 7 o'clock, Long, wildly excited and with tears streaming down his cheeks, appeared at a brickyard near the scene of the slaying, where he has been employed as a laborer for 23 years, and attempted to get some of the men to go with him. They paid him scant attention. About two hours later the body, with the head badly battered, was discovered by W. Dupes, a farmhand.

Dupes said he had been husking corn on a nearby farm for several days and was on his way to the brickyard, where he had been sleeping. He removed the body from the tracks and rushed to the brickyard, where he told of his discovery to employees.

Police were called and as they arrived on the scene a large crowd soon gathered. Long pushed himself to the front and resumed his gesticulations, but he was shoved to the outside of the circle. He followed the investigators to the police station. Again he was ignored.

Dr. L. L. Ellis performed an autopsy and after its conclusion at 4 o'clock this morning Detectives Fickes and Keech returned to the scene to search for more clues.

Long was pacing up and down the track. By pointing to the spot and making the motions of a man shooting a rifle and then using it as a club, he convinced them he had witnessed the crime.

He told the detectives that he saw the man walking with the girl a short distance from where she was found, when he suddenly wheeled and fired two shots, one shattering her jaw and the other piercing her heart. Then he beat her on the head with the stock of the gun and dragged her body to the place where it was found. Footprints leading into a field bore out the mute's story.—Phila.

DETROIT.

Mrs. G. Engel engineered a Hot Chicken Supper at St. John's Parish House November 4th. The money is to help the Christmas Fund. All were well satisfied. It bids fair to become an annual event.

Work is still very slack in this city. Hudson, Chevrolet, Dodge, Motor Product, and Ford are all partly closed. Ford's new car is not yet out. For the sake of the many unemployed men, we hope things improve.

Mrs. Harold Holmes, who was injured in an automobile accident some time ago, is slowly improving. Doctors are trying their best to save the fingers on the right hand. It will be one of the modern miracles if they are saved. She is now able to sit up a little. We extend our sympathy to them, in the death of their two-year old son. Mrs. Holmes is known to the younger set as Ina Wolfert.

John Ulrich passed on to the great beyond shortly after our last items were out. To his widow, Mabel Mackenzie Ulrich, we extend our heartfelt sympathy.

Frank Brown entertained Marcus Ossmunson and family, and Mr. Duel and family, at dinner and supper recently at Royal Oak. They had a good time with plenty of good cigars.

A most delicious chop suey supper was served at the D. A. K. on the 22d by Miss Avis Kerr and Mrs. Alex Lobsinger, to a good crowd. Afterwards some very amusing games were played and some good prizes were given.

Mr. Horace B. Waters motored to Columbus, Ohio, to see the football game on the 28th. His son, Horace was one of the players.

M. S. D. was proud to bring home the victory. Next year Ohio will play a return game.

Sam Raskin, Tony Czubeck and Harold Lundgreen, were up to Columbus on the 29th, while Mrs. J. Chapman, of River Rouge, and Mrs. Horace B. Waters and Otto Buby attended the Hallowe'en Social at Flint.

Mayor Smith and several other men of the Common Council talked at the Fraternal Club, Sunday evening, to a good-sized crowd.

The Detroit Fraternal Club was the scene of a big crowd October 29th, for its annual Hallowe'en social. The room was tastily decorated for the event by S. Goth and his aids. An unusually large number wore costume. Mr. and Mrs. Fred Gottsworth, Grose Isle, and Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Smith, of Ann Arbor, acted as judges and gave the following honors: Fred Sundquist, farmer husking corn; Abbie Koehler, old-fashioned girl; Frank Wiley, Old Witch, Rose Dasso, Old Witch, Emma Martin, Clown, Clyde Beach, Belle Witch, Robert Goth, Felix, Jeannette May, Hallowe'en Bearer. Cash was given to all winners. The ladies at the lunch counter did themselves proud. It is such affairs as this that make people remember, Miss Lena Oldham, and Miss Emma Martin, of Toledo, Mrs. Lawrence Lynch, of Bay City, the Smith's of Ann Arbor and Ypsilanti, were out-of-town guests present.

Mr. and Mrs. R. V. Jones are now found at 13320 Woodrow Wilson Avenue Barclay Apartment's.

Miss MacGrennan of Ann Arbor is an ardent reader of the JOURNAL and favored us with her order. "Thanks."

Mrs. Aloys Japes and daughter are spending a week with her parents in Saginaw.

Mr. and Mrs. W. Whetstone's new home out on West Warren is completed, and they are getting ready to move into it. Mr. Whetstone did most of the work himself. Surely such an ambitious young couple deserves "God speed."

Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Sigler have moved to 5251 Townsend Avenue. Mr. John G. Young, of Maumee, Ohio, was a recent guest at their place.

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Tremaine, who live on Third Avenue, in Glendale Lodge, were lucky enough to save their furniture when the apartment burned last Monday.

Peter Polk suffered a broken right collarbone while at Ford's crank shaft department. He is now able to be about and at work again.

Mr. Wilbur Wells, of Chicago, came over to Detroit looking for a job. While here he is the guest of Mr. and Mrs. John Kader.

At the recent Teacher's Institute held in Detroit, the school for the deaf had a small exhibition of the school work in lip reading. Out of the five children on the platform, three have deaf parents. Mary Beaver, Louise May Behrendt, and Curtis Holbrook.

Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Behrendt and daughter Louise, "Forded" over to Grand Rapids for the month end, and attended the N. F. S. D. Hallowe'en Social and met many old friends and made new ones. Mr. William Miller was chairman of the evening and had a very good program of stunts, with prizes. We were so busy talking, we forgot to get the winners names.

Daniel Buskirk, of football fame in good old days at M. S. D., and his wife and three children, were there. Danny has his own bakery shop at Sheridan and is doing well. Kalamazoo was there with the usual jolly crowd. Grandpa Nash, with his smile, was busy greeting everybody. The Mars boys are nearly as big as Dad. A call at the Cranston Farm found them all well, with a goodly harvest in the barn. Mr. Cranston has been busy fixing over his house. Mrs. Cranston is none other than one of the famous four Shumway sisters. Laura, one of the other sisters, is living at Belding. Her husband is a carpenter at Grand Rapids and commutes back and forth week-ends. Their three oldest children are married. The youngest is attending High School.

Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Berry, and Mrs. Wolp, of Lansing, were guests of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas J. Kenney on the 31st.

Mr. Kenney is back to work after a two week's illness.

MRS. WM. BEHRENDT

FANWOOD.

For some unknown reason the Regimental Officers detailed to review and judge the Competition on Founder's Day, Friday, November 18th, failed to appear. It therefore devolved upon Colonel Gardner, Major Van Tassell and Captain Altenderfer, to act as the judges. This is the first time in the history of the Competitions that the officers of the Institution have officiated in this capacity.

Much to the amazement of the three gentlemen above named, the cadets far exceeded in excellence any previous demonstration. The execution of the manoeuvres, manual of arms, etc., were very close. Company "A" won the award, on account of being composed of older cadets, and thus better able to keep the alignments and cadence. The Colors therefore were awarded to them to be carried for the ensuing year.

Colonel Gardner complimented the cadets upon their efficiency, and his remarks were supplemented by Major Van Tassell and Captain Altenderfer. Too much cannot be said in praise of the magnificent exhibition given.

The weather turned bitter cold and the audience, when they could stand it no longer, went indoors and viewed the boys from the windows.

In the evening a Supper Dance was given to the Protean Society, which is composed of the commissioned cadet officers and the Adstrarians, a like society of the girls.

Mr. I. B. Gardner, Superintendent of the New York Institution, and Mr. Edward C. Rider, Superintendent of the Northern New York School, discussed school affairs with Dr. Taylor on Friday, November fourth.—Lexington Leader.

Mr. Edward Clearwater, who for fifty-four years was connected with the carpentry shop, as helper to his father and as instructor, died Tuesday evening, in his eighty-third year.

Fanwood was visited by Mr. Louis Wellner last Wednesday. He lives in Canaan, Ct., and while a pupil at the Hartford School was one of the basket ball players that had a match game with our boys.

Last week the two electric lights in the gymnasium was broken and that extinguished all lights in the trade school for twenty-four hours.

A basket ball game between "Herbie" and "Otto" was called off on account of that.

On Saturday evening, November 12th, there was a basketball game between the Clark Neighborhood House and our team, which was played at their court.

Their court is so low that it was hard to put the ball in the basket. It is far different from ours. The game was good, showing that the hearing team were wonderful at passing and dribbling.

Benny Shafranek, a graduate of this school three years ago, was the star player.

Mann and Brandus, who played a very good game, did excellent pass work.

Capt. Leo Port couldn't get through the line. After the third quarter, the score was 28 to 8 against us. Finally Port got two goals and three fouls and game ended to 31 to 15. Below is the fix-up of the players.

FLORIDA MISSION FOR THE DEAF.
St. Cloud, Florida

Bible class at 9:30 A.M., every Sabbath day. Preaching service at home or abroad (subject to call) at 2 P.M., on first Sunday of each month.

The Capital City.

Under the auspices of the Washington Division 46, N. F. S. D., an oyster supper was given at N. E. Masonic Temple, Saturday evening, November 12th.

It was a glorious evening for the Frats and their friends. About one hundred and seventy-five attended. Deaf people from near by towns attended, and about twenty-five from Baltimore, Md. Dancing, "500" and various games were played.

The committee consisted of Creed Quinley chairman, Walter Hauser, James Davidson, Louis Lovett, Roger Scott, Mrs. Robert Smoak, Mrs. Ducan Smoak and Mrs. Creed Quinley.

The committee made every effort to give the guests a most happy evening, and the visitors thoroughly enjoyed it.

Mr. Rose closed the program with "No," written by Holmes.

Roy Stewart is on the December program for a lecture. Come and see him.

After E. E. Maczowski's reading on "Hosea Preaches God's Love," Rev. Mr. A. D. Bryant talked on "Team Work," Sunday evening, November 13th, at the Baptist Church.

Rev. Mr. John H. Kent, vicar of St. Ann's Church for the Deaf of N. Y., was introduced to give a talk. He spoke at length on "Team Work is Sincere."

The "Lit" of the Washington deaf met in assembly of Masonic Temple on F and 8th Street, N. E., November 16th. A good program was presented.

Miss Elizabeth Peet, who was to give a talk that evening, sent her regrets at being unable to attend.

In her place, Rev. Mr. H. Lorraine Tracy talked on the recent Mississippi flood. It was very interesting and instructive.

Rev. Mr. Whildin, of Baltimore, Md., was also invited to give a talk. The deaf should join the Society—fifty cents per year.

Mrs. Roy Stewart rendered in signs "Nearer, My God, to Thee."

The Bible Class of the Baptist Mission will soon be reopened under the supervision of Prof. Drake of Gallaudet College. A social will be given at the hall on the evening of November 22d. It will be in charge of Mrs. Duncan Smoak. Everybody is cordially invited.

The Guild of St. Barnabas' Mission will have a Bazaar, at the hall of St. Mark's Church, December 14th. Everybody is cordially invited to help the committee make this event a success.

The business meeting and election of the Guild of St. Barnabas' Mission was postponed, on account of the heavy rainstorm on the 17th. Battling with their backs to the wall on the short end of a 12 to 7 score, Coach Teddy Hughes' Buff and Blue football team came within an ace of turning defeat into victory, in their annual clash with the University of Delaware eleven on Hotchkiss Field, at Kendall Green, Saturday afternoon November 12th. Delaware triumphed, 12 to 7.—Washington Post, Nov. 13th.

MUTE SEVERS ARTERY; UNABLE TO CALL AID.

Mrs. William Brookmeyer, 42 years old, 135 Thirteenth Street, Northeast, a deaf-mute, accidentally slashed an artery in her hand yesterday, while she was slicing bread in her home.

Unable cry for aid, she rushed into the street and met her husband, also a deaf-mute, who was returning from work. He placed her in an automobile and took her to Casualty Hospital. Physicians said that she lost so much blood that her condition is serious.—Washington Post, Nov. 11.

A damaging tornado struck southeast Washington, Thursday, the 17th. There was no loss of life or property among the deaf, for which we are thankful.

The Weather Bureau's explanation is that a huge mass of hot air moving up from the Gulf encountered a great volume of cold air coming in from the west, and this collision started the trouble.

Good news has been received from Detroit that our good friend, Horace B. Waters, has been certified to Bishop Page for ordination to the Diaconate. He has been lay-reader of the Epiphania Episcopal Mission for the Deaf of St. John's Church for several years.

The Feather party of the Detroit Association of the Deaf, of which Frank Allera is president, was successful.

Just a missive from Mrs. Louis Huff, of Oak Park, Illinois, saying she enjoys herself with the DEAF-MUTES' JOURNAL. Her only son is employed at the office of Chicago Daily News and he is a fine sign-maker.

John Young, Washington's friend, is now in Detroit, at No. 5251 Townsend Avenue.

Here are congratulations for Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Beckett, of Detroit, on the birth of their first boy, October 27th. Mother and child are doing well.

Mrs. G. E. M. Nelson, known to the Press as "Pansy," is home in Detroit once again, after four months' visit in Angola, N. Y. She is now residing with the Hendersons on Cameron Street, Detroit.

Mr. and Mrs. Casimir Sadows are home now, after many pleasure trips.

The Saturday Night Dramatic Club of Gallaudet College will give plays on the stage in the chapel here on the evening of December 3d? The price of admission is thirty-five cents.

MRS. C. C. COLBY.

DENVER

Friday evening, October 14th, Mrs. F. L. Reid, widow of the late Mr. Reid, was united in marriage to Mr. Elmer Smith, at the home of Mrs. Reid's daughter, Mrs. Frank Lessley. The Rev. Homer Grace performed the ceremony. They have the best wishes of all their friends.

Saturday afternoon, October 29th, Mrs. Tom Collins entertained several little people in honor of her little daughter, Alma Jean, who celebrated her seventh birthday. The little miss was made happy by the number of lovely presents she received, and a pleasant time was had by all.

Saturday evening, October 29th, Division No. 64 had a Hallowe'en Party. Mr. Roland Tansey and J. Leon Harvat had charge of it, and great credit goes to them for the splendid way they managed it. A tidy sum was raised to add to the division fund. Mrs. R. Tansey and Frank Dryer were the lucky prize winners of the apple-grabbing contest. Joe Haden was another prize winner, guessing the nearest correct number of seeds contained in a pumpkin. The evening was spent in dancing and playing games, and the crowd left late in the evening declaring they had a fine time.

We were glad to see Jimmy Quinn in our midst again, at the Hallowe'en Party. He had gone to New York, expecting to stay there, but it seems he did not like it there, so here he is back in dear old Colorado. He is having remarks such as these hurled at his head: "I knew you would be back," and "I told you so."

A most enjoyable afternoon was spent at the home of Mrs. George Huff, on November 9th. The regular meeting of the Liberty Club was held there. The afternoon was spent in playing "500." Delicious refreshments were served by the hostess. The next meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. Stephen Janovick, on December 14th.

Mr. and Mrs. Roland Tansey are the proud owners of a pretty new bungalow, which they purchased a few weeks ago. After getting comfortably settled, they invited friends to come over and see their new home, on Saturday evening, November 12th. Joe and Julia Haden, Mr. and Mrs. Leon Harvat and James Quinn, drove over to spend the evening with them. The evening was spent in playing games and chatting. Nice refreshments were served and a merry time was had by all.

WEDDING BELLS

October 22d witnessed the marriage of Rose Wax to Abraham Hymes. The bride, in her beautiful white satin dress, trimmed with lace and pearls, looked a picture of beauty. Her veil was edged off with lace and a wreath of orange blossoms decked her dark hair.

The altar decorated with chrysanthemums, made a setting in tune with the prevailing loveliness. The ceremony was conducted with solemnity befitting the occasion.

Rabbi Rev. Barnett Elzas officiated. Anna Jacobs was the maid of honor and Mr. Hymes, his brother, was the best man. The bridesmaids and ushers were Mr. and Mrs. Kremen, Mr. and Mrs. Ciavolino, Mr. and Mrs. Seandel and Mr. and Mrs. Schwartz.

After the wedding march, the guests, which numbered about 150 people, including 32 deaf, assembled at the wedding feast—and it was a feast fit for a king. The evening ended up hilariously, every one joining in the dances. The bride, now Mrs. Hymes, and her husband, bade their guests farewell and the last we heard from them was at Niagara Falls where they spent their honeymoon. They also stopped off at Canada for one week and another week at Atlantic City.

The newly married pair intend to make their home in Flatbush, and we all hope that their married life will be as flawless as the wedding.

Deaf Mutes 'See' Their Voices in Electric Mirror

Deaf-mutes may now "see" their voices and learn to speak by means of a recently developed electric contrivance.

The device, according to a bulletin issued by the Pennsylvania Public Service Information Committee, shows a line of light in a revolving mirror. When the voice is spoken into an attached receiver, the light line breaks into writing curves corresponding to sound waves.

A sweet, low-voiced "coo" into the receiver is visible in a graceful curve; a sharp "hello" provides a representation of a barbed-wire fence struck by lightning, and if one whistles the apparatus throws a fit.

Though originally developed for electrical laboratory research, the device has been found useful in the teaching of deaf-mutes to speak.—Phila. Enquirer.

FLORIDA

"The voice is Jacob's voice, but the hands are the hands of Esau."

Undoubtedly a majority of the executive committee of the Florida Association of the Deaf is in favor of St. Cloud as the convention city in 1927, as no other city bidding for the place has complied with the committee's conditions. Since the minority is not unanimous, St. Cloud has voted to withdraw, so that the committee may be free to proceed with the naming of a convention city.

From Sanford to Auburndale is some jump, but Arthur Bledsoe successfully negotiated the distance when he married Mrs. Eva Smiley and chose to stay there. Mrs. Bledsoe is a newcomer from Tennessee and has been in Florida only a short time, this time staying with her deaf sister, Mrs. Carl Edison, in Auburndale. Mr. Bledsoe has entered into partnership in a modern shoe fixtry in Auburndale. They have a host of friends who wish them much happiness in their second matrimonial venture.

George Harmening is a much mutilated man, yet he lives. He has been laid up in a Tampa hospital three months and only emerged after he had been operated upon the ninth time. He has to report to the hospital once a month for observation. Mr. Harmening is a farmer by occupation and lives in Dover.

Walter Meynard, of Gulf Port, wheeled into Tampa and St. Petersburg recently with a view of obtaining employment. The quest proved unsuccessful. It is understood that he contemplated returning to the lure of the sea in his former capacity.

A social on Hallowe'en night was delightfully enjoyed at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Hovious in Tampa, at which place about fifteen friends assembled to have a generally jolly time. Mrs. Anna Nelson, of Plant City, sponsored the entertainment.

Seventeen residents and visitors attended a religious service at the First Methodist Church in Lakeland on Sunday, November 6th. The next service will be held at St. Cloud on December 4th, and another at Miami on December 25th.

Mr. H. Brewsbaugh, a boilermaker of many years' standing, has forsaken this occupation and secured a job at an ornamental works in Tampa. It might be profitable for those who have been out of employment so long to abandon their present position and try other lines of work that will keep their body and soul together at this time of industrial depression, which hit throughout the state.

The home of Mr. and Mrs. C. J. Schmidt in Grant was gladdened by the visit on Sunday, November 6th, of Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Sapp and Miss Ruby Padgett, of St. Cloud, and Walter Dean, of Auburndale.

There is many a Kentuckian who makes his or her home in Florida who will be pleased to learn of the announcement that Dr. Rogers, superintendent of the Danville (Ky.) school for the deaf, has been granted a six months' leave of absence, which he will utilize in a sojourn in the land of eternal sunshine. The name of his destination has not been learned at this writing.

The St. Augustine Tribune, date November the fifth, says: "Mrs. A. W. Pope, who has been in the hospital at Ocala for the past three weeks, has returned to her home here." It will be recalled that she was the victim of a serious automobile accident last month, sustaining three broken ribs and other minor bruises. It is gratifying, indeed, to know that unless unforeseen complications arise, she will fully recover.

Mr. and Mrs. J. J. Padgett announce the marriage of their daughter, Ruby Leonato, to Walter Dean on Wednesday, the sixteenth of November, at St. Cloud, Florida.

The marriage was performed by Rev. Ivor G. Hyndman, pastor of the Methodist Episcopal Church, Frank E. Philpott assisting, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Frank E. Philpott. Only relatives and intimate friends witnessed the ceremony.

The home was very tastefully decorated in ferns, Spanish moss and poinsettias in harmonizing autumnal shades. The arch in the room, where the nuptial vows were spoken verbally and in the sign language, was banked with the same decorations, which formed a soft green background for the illuminated wedding bell. The ring ceremony was used.

After the wedding, refreshment were served to the bridal party and guests. Immediately after the repast the bride and bridegroom motored to Jacksonville, where they will stay a few days before returning to Auburndale.

The bride is well known in this city, where she has made her home since she first saw the light of day. The groom is a successful young business man of Auburndale.

The popular young couple have a host of friends throughout the State, who will be interested in the announcement of their marriage and wish them every happiness in their married life.

MANHATTAN FRATS' COSTUME MOVIE BALL

On Saturday evening, November 19th, 1927, the Manhattan Frats and their friends made merry at Odd Fellows Memorial Hall Building, 301-309 Schermerhorn Street, Brooklyn, N. Y.

On this occasion, which by the way was the natal day of Harvey Prindle Peet, known as the founder of the New York Institution (Fanwood), the chief attraction was the Costume Movie Ball, it was also the fifth annual winter affair given by the Manhattan Frat boys.

This division has increased from forty to nearly one hundred and fifty in the number of Fraters.

Dancing began as soon as the orchestra arrived, and was kept up till midnight, and it was a pleasure for old timers to watch the dancers whirl and step around in such a graceful way.

There were not many to avail themselves of the prizes, for the best imitation of well-known movie stars. Consequently the judges, who consisted of Miss Sophie Boatwright and Messrs. Harry Pierce Kane and Benjamin Baca, had little difficulty in selecting the winners, which were later announced by Moses Schnapp, the chairman of the Arrangement Committee. They were:

Mrs. J. G. Moses, first prize, $10; Abe Goodstein, second, $5; Mrs. M. Weinberger, third, $3; Mr. Rubinstein, fourth, $2.

The Entertainment Committee, to whom the greatest credit must be given for its success were: Moses Schnapp (Chairman), Moses A. Rosenberg (Adv. Manager), Henry Plapinger (Treasurer), Charles Sussman, Lester Hyams, Mike Ciavolino and Morris Kremen.

The Floor Committee was headed by Julius Seandel as manager; N. Schwartz as assistant manager, and the following aids: Harry Grossinger, George St. Clair, B. Minitz, J. Schultz, Lester Cohen, N. Magnus, H. Hersch and M. Weinberger.

The Reception Committee consisted of Moses W. Loew, M. L. Kenner, Max Miller, A. C. Bachrach, S. Frankenheim, H. Blechner, Benjamin Elkin, Samuel Lowenherz and Samuel Bramson.

The officers of Manhattan Division No. 87, N. F. S. D. are: John N. Funk, President; Leopold Frey, Vice President; Max M. Lubin, Secretary; William B. Mellis, Treasurer; Marcus L. Kenner, Joseph Schultz, Director; Jacob Friedman, Henry Plapinger and Abraham Hyams, Board of Trustees

NOTES

Moses Schnapp, whose task was to make the affair a success—was elated when he saw the big crowd. He is proprietor of a printery. He handed the JOURNAL representative two dollars for a year's subscription to the JOURNAL, an example others should imitate.

Mr. Samuel Bramson said that the JOURNAL should be included in every deaf-mute's family, and decided also to subscribe.

Louis Wellner, who is a traveling salesman, arrived in time for the ball on the morning of the affair—from Pittsburgh, Pa.

Nathan Herlands has been employed in Stamford, since last May. This season he will play professional basketball with a Stamford Club.

Harry Pierce Kane, the guy who put the first division, No. 23, in Greater New York, was there. He seemed to know most everybody, except the very young 'uns, who are just out of school.

The Butter and Egg man, Louis Hagen, stouter than of yore, looked still more prosperous. No wonder, saith that friend of ours in Yonkers, the price of butter and eggs has gone up again.

Perhaps some have heard of "Bozo" Snyder. He is known as the famous burlesque pantomime comedian, in other words the silent man who never speaks. On Monday evening, November 21st, he was welcomed by the "Silent" club of the Bronx, at 695 Dawson Street, and tendered a banquet and reception. The welcome will be extended throughout the week at Miner's Bronx Theatre, where "Bozo" will head his own troupe.

The Brooklyn Guild will have a Free Thanksgiving Social on Saturday evening, November 26th, at the Church of The Messiah, 80 Greene Avenue, Brooklyn. Come and bring your friends. Gates Avenue car stops at door. Games for prizes and lots of fun for all.

Miss Margaret Boyd met with an accident last week and sustained a broken shoulder. She is at present confined indoors at St. Elizabeth's Home on West 15th Street and would be glad to have friends call on her.

Miss Rhoda Cohen, of Manchester, N. H., who graduated from Gallaudet College with the Class of '25, is in New York, and if she gets a position will remain here permanently.

GREATER NEW YORK N. A. D. BRANCH

On Wednesday evening, November 16th, at the rooms of the Deaf-Mutes' Union League, the Greater New York, N. A. D. Branch held a meeting, and afterwards Mr. Kelly Stevens, Art Instructor of the New Jersey School for the Deaf, who spent a year in Europe in studying and observing the mode of living of the deaf, consumed almost two hours in his description of the living conditions of the deaf, their signs, etc.

The meeting, of course, was held first. Miss Sherman, the Secretary, who refused to serve another term, but consented to hold over for three months, was not present, and Miss Alice E. Judge was appointed Secretary pro tem for the evening.

It seems, by the report presented at the meeting, that the Executive Committee have devoted efforts to the interest of the Association. If all the deaf will join, and help carry out the program mapped out, the Greater New York Branch, N. A. D. will become a tower of strength.

After the completion of the routine business, chiefly which was the dance to be held on Saturday evening, December 10th, in the Guild Room of St. Ann's Church. The admission will only be fifty cents. Three-fourths of the profit will go to the De l'Epee Memorial Fund, and the rest to the Association!

Following was the election of a new Secretary for the ensuing year, for the office became vacant—the three months hold-over by Miss Sherman having expired. Mr. Edwin W. Nies was elected to the office by acclamation.

Prof. Stevens was then introduced by President Funk. Prof. Stevens is a master sign-maker, yea, more than that—he can sign in several different languages.

He gave an outline of the societies in France, stating that they composed of many, but not united like our N. F. S. D. and N. A. D. He then compared their signs with ours, some were the same, but not all, and stated that the younger, or those of the present day deaf in France do not make as graceful signs as those who were educated a decade ago.

In Italy he found that the mode of living of the deaf was poor, and they work hard for a mere pittance and their meeting places were far from elegant.

In Spain conditions were far better, the deaf being very courteous, and he saw much, both of the poor and wealthy deaf.

In conclusion he described a bull fight in Madrid, Spain.

At the conclusion he was tendered a vote of thanks.

The lecture was well worth attending, and it is hoped the Greater New York Branch of the N. A. D. will keep this up and invite others at future meetings.

Mr. and Mrs. J. Kansriddle is pleased to announce that Sunday, November 13th, there was quite a gathering at their home in Brooklyn. It was just a social affair, with celebrities such as Messrs. and Mesdames. J. Kansriddle, R. Laing and daughter, G. Ting
